THE

DUBLIN REVIEW.

VOL. XVI. NEW SERIES.

JANUARY—~~JULY~~, April
MDCCCLXXI.

BOSTON COLLEGE LIBRARY
CHESTNUT HILL, MASS.

LONDON:
BURNS, OATES, & CO., 17 & 18, PORTMAN STREET,
AND 63 PATERNOSTER ROW.
DERBY: RICHARDSON & SONS.
DUBLIN: JAMES DUFFY; W. B. KELLY.
1871.

67089

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—PIUS IX. AND THE REVOLUTION.

The Christian name 1
Recent assaults on the Papacy 2
The persecution of Pius VI. and Pius VII. 5
Pontificate of Pius IX. as described by Mr. Maguire 9
Course of his reign 10
Rome in 1848 15
Mr. Maguire's description of the Pope's daily life 17
Cavour and the Revolution 20
The late invasion 25
The proposed modus vivendi 33

ART. II.—GRIGNON DE MONTFORT AND HIS DEVOTION.

Necessity that the true character of de Montfort should be understood 37
Analysis of his biography 38
General current of his life 39
Character of his writings 41
His special devotion 42
Evidence frem the Raccolta 44
Invaluable assistance of Marian devotion to souls striving towards perfection 46
Slaves of Mary 47
De Montfort's practice for Communion 50
His statement of Mary's presence in the soul 55
Other terms used by de Montfort 56

ART. III.—DEAN STANLEY ON WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The old English Cathedrals anatomies 58
The Abbey Monuments 61
Westminster actual in the 19th century 63
Westminster in its Catholic past 67
The Dean's exposition of the Abbey 73
His Theology 82
The Dean in Dreamland 83

ART. IV.—CHAMPAGNY'S CÆSARS OF THE THIRD CENTURY.

Contrast of the spirit of Gibbon with that of M. de Champagny . . 85
Dearth of materials for a history of the daily life of Roman society . 90
Gradual progress of Christian ideas at Rome 93
Project of a new Universal Religion 99
Relations of the Church and Empire 102
The persecution of Severus 104
The persecution of Decius 107
M. de Champagny's picture of Commodus 109

ART. V.—LIFE AND LABOURS OF S. THOMAS OF AQUIN.

Valuable character of F. Vaughan's work 111
S. Thomas at Cologne 113
The name of S. Thomas 114
His system 117
Necessity for a Summa 120
Want of a system of Philosophy 129
Plato and Aristotle 131
S. Thomas and Physics 135
Want of a new Summa 136

ART. VI.—THE ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN NOVELS.

Their unique character 138
Their great influence 141
Their historical realism 144
Michel Bastien 145
Character of Chauvel 149
The Vendéan insurrection 155
The Conscript 158
Joseph under fire 161
The Hospital 162
Waterloo 164
The "Blocus" 165
La Guerre 167
The "Romans Populaires" 169

ART. VII.—THE DEFINITION OF PAPAL INFALLIBILITY.

Contrast of the Councils of Trent and the Vatican 171
The threatened interference of secular governments 174
Character of the Conciliar meetings 176
The question of Infallibility raised by the Bishops themselves . . 178

Second objection to the Council's Œcumenicity 180
Authority of the Definition 184
The Monitum concluding the first Constitution 191
The Sphere of Infallibility 193
Notes of an ex cathedrâ Act 194
Comparative frequency of such Acts 195
Terminology of Infallibility 197
Effects of the Definition 198
Persons of "extreme views" 200

ART. VIII.—NOTICES OF BOOKS.

Act constituting S. Joseph Patron of the Church 202
Archbishop Manning's "Rome the Capital of Christendom" . . 206
F. Coleridge's "The Christian Kingdom" 206
Dr. Todd's "Kingly Office of the Church" 206
Dr. Hergenrother's "Anti-Janus" 208
F. Coffin's "Hear the Church" 210
The Pontifical Decrees against the motion of the Earth . . . 211
Lord Acton on the Council 212
Mr. Maskell on the late Definition 216
Mr. O'Donnell on Mixed Education in Ireland 219
F. Dalgairns on Spiritual Life in Mediæval England 222
F. Dalgairns on the Theory of a Soul 225
F. Newman on Miracles 226
Mr. MacColl's Ammergau Passion Play 232
Mr. Blackburn's "Art in the Mountains" 232
Dr. Reynolds's Ecclesia 235
Men and Women of the English Reformation 239
Anglican Friends in Council 241
History of the Order of the Visitation 263
Mr. Blunt's Plain Account of the English Bible 245
F. Franzelin de Deo Uno 251
Hortus Animæ 252

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—CERTITUDE IN RELIGIOUS ASSENT.

F. Newman's Grammar of Assent 253
Statement of the chief contemporary anti-Catholic philosophical principle 254
Reply to that principle as stated 255
Suggested amendment to it 258
Reply to its amended exposition 259
Evidences of Theism accessible to all men 267
Evidences of Catholicity possessed by the most uneducated Catholic . 269
Concluding remarks 272

ART. II.—PIUS VII. AND NAPOLEON I.

Subject of M. d'Haussonville's third volume 275
Restraint exercised by Napoleon in regard to discussion of ecclesiastical affairs 276
Fortunate date at which M. d'Haussonville published . . . 277
Napoleon's first proceedings 278
His persecution of the Cardinals 280
The Bull of Excommunication 282
Annexation of the Roman States 283
Seizure of the Pope's person 284
His journey 286
His arrival at Savona 288
Attempts to influence the Holy Father 290
Napoleon's plan of Church polity 293
Cardinals Fesch and Maury 295
The affair of Abbé d'Astros 296
Napoleon's increased severity 298
Extraordinary pressure brought upon the Pope 301

ART. III.—THE PRIEST ON THE MISSION.

General character of Canon Oakeley's book 302
His wide experience 304
His preliminary address 305
Earnestness in preaching 307

Methods of construction 308
Controversial discourses 310
The Lecture on occasional advice 311
On the treatment of converts 313

ART. IV.—TWO ENGLISH NOVELISTS: DICKENS AND THACKERAY.

Common comparison of Mr. Dickens and Mr. Thackeray . . . 315
Both moralists 316
Morality of Mr. Dickens's works 318
Character of Mr. Thackeray's preaching 320
Comparison of their literary positions 322
Mr. Dickens's style of sentiment 324
Mr. Thackeray as a humourist 325
Contrast between scenes in "Dombey and Son" and "Vanity Fair" . 326
Mr. Thackeray's evenness of manner 328
The two writers' opposite views of life 330
Barry Lyndon 333
Mr. Dickens's "Pictures from Italy" 336
Mr. Dickens's love of nature 339
Plots 341
Special characters 344
The "Pickwick Papers" 349

ART. V.—COPERNICANISM AND POPE PAUL V.

Thesis of the article, Paul V. did not condemn Copernicanism ex cathedrâ 351
If he had condemned it ex cathedrâ, he must have issued a definition of faith 352
The Decree of 1616 shows by its very form that it is no such definition 353
Contemporary facts make the same truths absolutely certain . . . 356
Arguments on the other side successively considered 357
History of the Decree 365
Decisiveness of one final remark 367

ART. VI.—THE SEE OF ROME IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

Ignorance of educated men regarding Rome 368
The Teutons and Christianity 370
The Middle Ages 373
Boniface VIII. and Alexander III. 375
The Popes at Avignon 377
The Church of Rome "a National Church" 379
The Pope and the Bishops 381
The case of Philip de Brois 383

ART. VII.—THE BREHON LAW OF IRELAND.

Breach made in the old Irish political system in 1602 385
Antiquity of the Irish polity and laws 386
Views of Ireland presented by the Brehon Law 389
Preface of the Law 392
Variety of cases considered by it 393
Dr Hancock's Preface 394
Oriental origin of Irish customs 395
Irish pre-Christian alphabet and literature 397
S. Patrick and the Senchus Mor 398
Colonel Vallancey's Irish studies 399
History of the preservation and publication of the laws 400
Effect of the Brehon Law on Irish character 404
The revolt of the Attacotti 408
Conflict of the Irish and English law 410

ART. VIII.—DEVOTION TO S. JOSEPH.

Gradual development of devotion to S. Joseph 412
Scope of the present paper 414
Long silence of the Church regarding S. Joseph 414
Origin of devotion to S. Joseph 419
S. Joseph in the Eastern Churches 420
In the Western 422
Feasts of S. Joseph 424
Fruits of this devotion 426

ART. IX.—PARIS AND FRANCE.

Present condition of France and of Europe 428
Character and military difficulties of the struggle imminent at Paris . 431
Responsibility of the Imperial Government for French disasters . . 433
Relation of the Empire to parties not Imperialist 434
France responsible for that government 435
True character of the coup d'état 436
Real causes of the fall of the Emperor 437
His liberation of Italy 437
His toleration of obscene and infidel literature and repression of religious writers 438
M. Thiers as Chief of the Executive Power 439
The position of the Germans in France 440
Contrast of 1806 and 1870 441
The three courses open to France 441
The Third Republic and M. Gambetta 442
French Republics and Republicans 443
An Imperial restoration considered 444
An Orleanist restoration 445
Henry the Fifth 447

ART. X.—APPENDIX TO THE ARTICLE ON GRIGNON DE MONTFORT.

A statement mistakenly ascribed in our former article to the biographer of Mother Margaret 448
Dr. Northcote's letter on the subject 450
Consideration of the point directly at issue 453
Reply to Dr. Northcote's other comments 454

ART. XI.—ROMAN DOCUMENTS.

The Restoration of France (Civiltà Cattolica) 459
Address of the Catholic Union to the Holy Father 468
Reply of His Holiness 471

ART. XII.—NOTICES OF BOOKS.

Acta Sanctæ Sedis 473
Archbishop Manning's Petri Privilegium 474
The Infallibility of the Pope explained 476
Infallibility in a Nutshell 479
F. Coleridge's Theology of the Parables 479
Mr. St. George Mivart's Genesis of Species 482
The Contemporary Review 487
Reasons for returning to the Church of England 487
Dr. Döllinger's Letter to the Archbishop of Munich 490
Abbé Courbon's Instruction on Mental Prayer 492
Macmillan's Magazine 494
Mr. Hutton's Essays 494
Mr. Edwards's Life of Sir Walter Ralegh 497
Mr. Gould's Good English 501
Mr. Dering's Chieftain's Daughter. 502
Dom Raynal's Ordinal of Edward VI. 503
F. Lockhart's The Old Religion 505
Mr. Martin's Rule of the Pope King 508
Dom Guéranger's Liturgical Year 511